

International Summer School of Architecture 'Architecture and Cultural Heritage of Silesia: Searching for a Common Language'

22nd - 31st July 2019, Gliwice, Poland

This course will introduce you to the world of Architecture and Cultural Heritage of Silesia Region of Poland - strongly connected with process of fast urbanization and industrialization in XIX and XX centuries. The region is rich of valuable and unique post-industrial monuments and historical estates.

The course consists of two main parts:

'Architecture and Cultural Heritage of Silesia' – including lectures, sightseeing, guided tours, visits on heritage sites, vernacular houses, local food tasting, meeting with local communities, etc. You will visit a lot of outstanding and unusual sites, you will learn local traditions and the way of living, possible to meet only here. You will visit also post- industrial revitalized facilities and new advanced technology smart buildings. 'Searching for a Common Language in Architecture – including workshop at the Faculty of Architecture SUT. The main subject of the workshop is ,dwelling in local contexts through the eyes of young architects' tutoring by academic teachers. Architecture of dwelling and habitation is a common language in architecture in terms of basic needs, but differs in form, materials and local contexts. We will elaborate a new reinterpretations of houses drawing inspiration from Silesian post-industrial facilities and housing estate architecture, new technology smart buildings and from your local traditions as well, searching for a common language of contemporary housing form and function. After completing the entire course each students will be granted 6 ECTS

Organizer: Faculty of Architecture, Silesian University of Technology, Gliwice

Target group: Students of architecture and related subjects from all over the world

Cost: 540 € | The cost includes: Course materials and activities (visits, lectures, seminars, workshops, transport) + Accommodation and some meals

Registration and fee payment is possible from 15.04.2019 until 31.05.2019.

For more details see the website:

<http://summerschool.polsl.pl/architecture/>